By Sen. George Smathers

WASHINGTON — Indications seem clear now that the Senate will receive a substantially modified highway construction program, as compared with the $100-billion recommendation in the Administration's program.

But it will virtually double an already-accelerated road building program in Florida, and likely will be just about all our state can handle. What appears now to be the most likely formula for increasing the highway building activity is that offered by Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee. It has gained widespread support throughout the Senate, even as hearings have progressed.

If the Gore bill, or legislation embodying its principles, is adopted, there will be close to $30,000,000 authorized for Florida during the fiscal year 1956. Subject only to the state's ability to match these funds and actual appropriations, Florida thus could have a $60,000,000 road program for next year.

Rogers' District Speaks Up On ??

WASHINGTON — Florida's Sixth Congressional district, including the Glades, does not favor 90 per cent price supports and is in favor of flexible price support from 75 to 90 per cent of parity, according to the answers submitted to Rogers, Paul Rogers, "Wants to Know" questionnaire.

In a recap of the results of answers submitted to Rogers, 68 percent of those who answered the poll favored admission of Hawaii and Alaska as states and more than 90 per cent did not favor admitting the territories separately.

In thinking about the minimum hourly wage the persons who answered the question "Should the minimum hourly wage be raised?" were 55 per cent in favor and 45 per cent opposed.

On Federal aid to schools 53 per cent expressed willingness to continue to provide for it. On Federal encouragement of privately organized health insurance, 68 per cent of the respondents were fifty-fifty.

Apparently an overwhelming number of those who answered the questionnaire agreed that the obligations of the military today because 85 per cent voted against reduction in strength for the armed forces and 68 per cent felt that pay and other incentives should be increased.

Of those answering the questionnaire, 66 percent felt that postal rates should be increased and nearly 50 percent favored higher 3rd class postal rates. Some 76 per cent felt that federal financial aid to the states would be a good thing.

Tax-wise the opinions reflected in answers to the questionnaire were 70 per cent for renewal of excise taxes, 76 per cent agreed that a tax reduction for each taxpayer should not be effected, and 72 per cent felt that no tax reductions should be voted until the budget is balanced.

Only a submarine is left. Till make that one day, too. Boats I've been on — and perish take the day I ever set foot on another, with my uncertain poses slipping and sliding and all that water threatening me. But what I started to say — now I've traveled on everything but a submarine, and I'll be ready for the first one I catch in the Lake.

A couple of weeks ago I added to my life travelogue transportation in something called a blimp.

A blimp is like some politics — a large bag of gas which is guided by humans and occasionally rolls with a change of wind.

But a blimp also leads a long life, and a happy one. I went riding at Miami in the very blimp that used to come to the beach festivals up here, which has been flying since the early 1920s. . . . is a veteran of World War II.

And by golly, it's the first time I've been in any form of transportation that I didn't figure a loose screw, either person or machinery, might cause me to cease column-writing permanently.

This blimp, called "Ranger," is owned by Goodyear, which also makes dirigibles. It flies around Miami area in the winters, then goes hunting up more tourists in the North during the summer.

Being a member of the press, I paved a free ride out of Capt. Verne Smith, and even got the bosses on board for nothing, too. Of course, there's a little more to the story than that. Captain Smith and his co-pilot, Larry Burrows, used to buy ice cream cones for Boss No. 2 when she was but a small annoying child. So I have to admit there were more influences at work than my journalistic stature (not quite one bit high!).

Well, pretty soon my fellows showed this blimp up in the air off one of the Miami causeways. They let go a series of ropes, and the two engines, which are awfully small compared to the big Navy blimp engines, coughed obligingly and took us up in the air.

We took a downward turn, like a whale heading toward a tasty dish, and Capt. Smith, gently removing my paw from my muzzle, told me that blimps don't go into tails. They just float. In case of no engines — more floating. Anytime you get tired of floating around in the air, you grab hold of a red line leading up into the gabgas and rip. Then you come down.

Say you're using your engines, you just sit like-in-normal fashion, being especially careful to avoid power lines. First, up over Biscayne Bay, we chased sharks and big old rayfish. It was simple. We'd spot 'em lying on the bottom, or turning hungry eye toward small fish, and then we'd aim the blimp so its shadow hovered over them. They sure made time to get out of the way of our shadow!

Then we mooseyed-up to the new Fontainebleau Hotel and looked at the kids' swimming pool. It's in the shape of a cat. Its eyes are two blue wading ponds, and its tail is a little diving board.

We inspected other new buildings along Collins Ave., and shortly landed back at the runway base. I walked away from the Ranger a reluctant dog.

Thing is, I want a blimp to call my own. With 123,000 cubic feet of gas-bag won't fit on the porch.

BY WIN PENDLETON

HOW LONG IS THESE MINUTES? The scene was the annual Florida banquet, staged at the Shoreham by the Florida State Chamber of Commerce. Honored were Mrs. Ivey Baker Priest, treasurer of the United States and all members of the Florida Congressional delegation and their wives—100% present.

Toastmaster President Earl Brown, of Deland, fearing a long and tedious speech, asked his member of the delegation to speak for only three minutes. He said it once, then repeated it, then hunted at it again—there was no mistaking his intent. Then in order of their rank, each spoke. How long is three minutes? Here is the stop-watch time each used—in order of appearance: Senator Holland, 3:34; Senator Smathers, 4:30; Congressman Silkes, 3:40; Bennett, 4:20; Herlong, 2:20; Haley, 4:45; Matthews, 5:11; Fassel, 2:49; Cramer, 4:00; Rogers, 3:36.

THEY ARE in the election last fall, Democrats gained in every state legislature in the country—except one. The lone exception is Florida, where the Republicans made a gain of one seat. They now have six members in the House and one in the Senate.

ADVANCE PLANNING: What's Senator Smathers up to?

The word about him not running for Congress has been floating along without his knowledge or partial consent. And although he went to each member of the delegation here and told him he was going to run again—maybe he does have something else in mind. This was beautifully "leaked" over T-2 last week when Scotty Peck, one of his secretaries, let it out that I the Senator was destined for greater things. Peck was on Herb Shriner's show—and during the interview grasped an opportunity to plug in for his boss. Peck said among other things, "he (Senator Smathers) could go on to greater things." Peck is not fool. He wouldn't have said that without a great deal of thought ahead of time. And he was on the program because Senator Smathers attracted it with friends. So, maybe this is a hint—creeping out of the bag. Will George try for the vice-presidential nomination? The idea of running a handsome, appealing, young man as vice-president seems to have its merits. And George can qualify as a southern running mate to a northern Democrat. He is a friend of Dew Russell and the friend of Lyndon Johnson of Texas—and very close to powerful Senator George. He is a friend of Dew Russell and the friend of Lyndon Johnson of Texas—and very close to powerful Senator George. He is a friend of Dew Russell and the friend of Lyndon Johnson of Texas—and very close to powerful Senator George.

With Scotty's slip—and you have the possibility. Keep your eyes open for this one. And why not?

MISCELLANEOUS: Lt. Charles Cornelius of Okechobee, stationed at Norfolk, was seen lunching with old time friend Congressman Paul Rogers. . . . Jake Carlson, able Administrative Assistant to Sen. Smathers, moving from his present post to a similar spot in the office of Senator George of Georgia.

NO "BARGAIN" HOSPITAL CARE

(ED. NOTE: National Hospital Week begins Sunday, May 8. The following information article is published to remind the public of the availability of hospital care.)

There is no such thing as "bargain basement" hospital care. As our hospitals have grown up with our nation since their crude beginnings in the 19th Century, they have become efficient and economical in their care and treatment of patients. According to Today's Hospital, published by the American Hospital Association in recognition of National Hospital Week, the past fifty years have seen a vast number of changes in the idea of a hospital and in its obligations to the public. Hospitals are no longer operated as charities, and hospitals are no longer considered as paths to death's door.

People now demand well-administered, modernly-equipped, scientifically efficient institutions. At one time the hospitals were pest houses, or almshouses where sick persons were left to die.

Increased Responsibility: Patient care, research, and education have been the duties of hospitals. Fifty years ago the educational problem at hospitals was the doctor's knowledge. Now their educational programs include courses for bacteriologists, medical librarians, physical therapists and x-ray technicians.

Research in cancer, polio, and tuberculosis is widely known, but research in hospital administrative practices to reduce costs and increase patient care is not so well known.

Modern hospitals feature safety, simplicity and spaciousness in their physical design. The old-fashioned dark and noisy corridors have given way to well lit and soundproofed passage ways. Nurses can concentrate on patient care. Formerly record keeping and care of equipment consumed a large part of hospital duty time. Nowadays administrative personnel and centralized supply rooms relieve nurses of these housekeeping burdens.

The shorter stay means a reduction in the patient's bill. He not only pays for fewer days of hospital care but he can usually return to work more rapidly. The expense of modern hospitalization usually means that the patient has paid more per day for his stay than would have been required earlier in the 20th century. By increasing the turn over in use of hospital facilities a more economic use of them can be made. These economies are passed on to the public as more patients can gain access to needed facilities.

Stay Reductions: Reductions in length of stay have been brought about by hospitals through care, research and education in many fields. Some of these are: reduction of dangers of childbirth; reduction of infectious diseases through the use of so-called "wonder drugs"; improved techniques in delivery rooms, nurseries, and surgical pavilions; utilization of specialized equipment and facilities for greater economies in their applications; and the technique of getting patients up and about shortly after surgery. All of these practices tend to make the patient respond more quickly to treatment and recover and leave the hospital sooner than

CONSTITUTIONAL PERMANENCY

Historians have marveled at the imperishability of the Constitution of the United States.

It was 163 years ago this week that the first Constitutional Convention was called, and two years later the instrument was ratified and became the law of the land.

During the years between its becoming law and today, the United States has faced and surmounted the internal strife of the War Between the States and two World Wars. This is not to mention the smaller debacles of the various turbulences of the Spanish American War and border incidents with Mexico.

The Constitution has weathered the various turbulences surrounding the country it sustains. Why, many authorities have wondered, is it possible for one document to be sufficiently flexible to withstand the stresses of nearly two centuries, when similar documents have not lasted in other countries?

One paramount, and frequently overlooked reason why the Constitution has stood is that Jefferson, Madison, Hamilton, and others devised it for this particular nation.

Other documents patterned after its terminology and structure have not suited the countries which have tried to accommodate themselves to a Constitution.

Latin American countries have found no satisfaction under similar documents because the decision to be governed by a duplicate constitution was set forth in lands where dissimilar patterns of government were a habit. Here, the Constitution was a outgrowth of colonial constitutional patterns which were familiar to the citizens of the new land.

The Constitution met the needs of a small new nation and as the population grew, from reproduction, immigration and absorption, each new element learned gradually how to accustom itself to an established fact. There was no sudden imposition on a cohesive mass of persons of an unfamiliar rule of law. Rather there was a day-to-day realization that the existing form was a sensible and workable frame of government.

Each new group settled into the pattern of national life and took for granted the kind of law it found. The Constitution grew in usefulness and in so doing gained the respect of those it protected. There, it seems, is a basis for its permanency and its imperishability.

Rumen Feeding

Dr. Ray W. Pifer, Ft. Wayne, Ind., said in his address to Indiana Grain & Feed Dealers Association, "From what we know today about the utilization of roughages by beef cattle, we realize the importance of the micro-organisms or 'bugs' in the rumen. These tiny 'bugs' break down the roughage and other food. Actually when these bugs are properly fed, they live, grow and multiply on the energy they get by digesting the feed, and then the cattle grow and fatten as they absorb the bugs from the digestive tract. It appears then that our problem in feeding cattle on low quality roughage . . . is to supply a supplement that meets the requirements of the bugs and of the cattle as well."

Union Leaders Are Dodging The Issue In The Telephone Strike

They are issuing a lot of misleading statements about the Company's position on arbitration.

These statements don't check with the facts.

Look at these Facts —

Ever since we've had a contract with the Union, the true intent and meaning of every provision of every agreement between the Company and the Union has been subject to arbitration.

BEFORE THE STRIKE STARTED, Southern Bell proposed that any disciplinary action resulting from violations of the no-strike clause demanded by the Company would be subject to arbitration.

BEFORE THE STRIKE STARTED, Southern Bell proposed that all suspensions of employees, regardless of the cause, would be subject to arbitration.

In spite of what Union leaders have said, the truth is that BEFORE THE STRIKE STARTED, Southern Bell proposed full and complete arbitration on every type of discipline that could be imposed under the new contract.

In fact, not only all discipline but practically every other item in the new contract proposed by the Company BEFORE THE STRIKE STARTED was made subject to arbitration. The only items on which no arbitration is available under the Company proposal are the pension plan, leaves of absence, Company compliance with health, safety and fire protection laws and demotions and discharges during trial periods—matters which the Union and the Company have agreed over the years in collective bargaining should not be left to the final decision of an arbitrator. This is all a responsible Union would want.

BUT THIS UNION WANTS STILL MORE

They are going so far as to demand that an arbitrator be called in now to decide WHAT THE TERMS OF THE NEW CONTRACT SHALL BE. We would, in effect, write a whole new contract and his decision would be final. There his responsibility ends.

Southern Bell's management is charged with the sole responsibility for providing Communications services in the area the Company serves. It cannot surrender that responsibility to others. Our obligation under the law cannot be delegated. We must retain the right to make the final decisions essential to the sound and effective management of this public service.

The issue in this strike is simple and clear—Will Union leaders live up to a Contract once it is signed?

Southern Bell guarantees good wages, good working conditions and other contract benefits. In return it asks only that Union leaders agree not to disrupt service to the public by strikes while the contract is in force.

This they refuse to do on any reasonable basis. They still demand the right to call workers off the job whenever it suits their purposes, while the contract is in effect. They want the contract to be binding on the Company but not on the Union.

IT'S ALL BUICK

delivered locally!

YOU certainly can throw out your chest and call this strapping big Buick yours.

Because—as any comparison shows—the dollar difference between this brawny beauty and the well-known smaller cars is now virtually erased. So if you've been holding back, thinking a Buick was out of reach—let yourself go. You can afford a Buick if you can afford any new car—and the price we show here proves it.

Buick Sales Are Soaring To New Best-Seller Highs

That's a major reason for the phenomenal success of Buick today. So much so, that production and sales are hitting new peaks to move Buick more firmly into the tight circle of America's best sellers.

And a companion reason for this soaring popularity is Buick's full line of cars to give you a choice in any price class—the bedrock-priced SPECIAL, the high-powered CENTURY, the extra-roomy SUPER, and the custom-built ROADMASTER.

But pure and simple, it's all the automobile you get for your money that's winning so many new owners to Buick.

It's the extra pride you feel, the extra room you enjoy, the extra comfort you get, the extra safety you sense—from Buick styling, Buick size, Buick ride-engineering, Buick solidity of structure.

DID YOU KNOW—

- that the Buick SPECIAL is priced below any other car of 188 horsepower and 122-inch wheelbase?
- that the Buick SPECIAL is priced below some models of the three well-known smaller cars?
- that the Buick SPECIAL gives you more pounds of automobile than any other car at its low price?

WITH DEEP APPRECIATION for the confidence shown in me by my election in the Group 1 runoff Tuesday.

I REAFFIRM my pledge to the registered voters of Pahokee to support vigorously suggestions, proposals, and motions that come before the Council and will be of benefit to the city and the community; to oppose with equal vigor any actions that I think are not beneficial or which are aimed for selfish gain.

Decline Last Year

Last year there was no organized Boy Scout finance drive in this area and because of the lack of public support and interest, local Scouting quickly went into a decline, the campaign committee said. Troop 24, sponsored by the Canal Point Methodist Church, was able to function at Canal Point chiefly through the leadership of its Scoutmaster, Phelix A. Slonaker, Ed Carver, serving as Scoutmaster of Pahokee Troop 28, did some outstanding work in keeping his troop active for several weeks before it was forced to fold up last fall because of the lack of public support.

This winter several public spirited individuals, unhappy with the sad state of affairs in local Scouting, decided to do something about it. Since the first of the year Pahokee Cub Pack 22 has been reactivated and received its charter under the sponsorship of PTA; Pahokee Boy Scout Troop 28, sponsored by the Lions Club, has been reactivated and plans are underway to reactivate Troop 23 under the sponsorship of the Rotary Club. An active Scout committee for this district has been organized and a new bus has been purchased for use by local Scouts on their field and camping trips.

In a message to the public at the start of the drive, Dr. Luce pointed out that the Pahokee Canal Point area now has leaders who know Scouting, are interested in promoting Scouting and will make this coming year outstanding for local Scouting if the public will support the movement.

funds earmarked for the C-C in the city budget, to repair the highway sign at 20-Mile Bend and for use in additional signs. Four hundred dollars was authorized as advance payment, with additional funds to come as the city budget year progresses.

C-C Director Leonard Dobrow suggested that the city designate the Chamber as its advertising agency. Wilkinson asked what the Chamber thought. "The taxpayers would think," Stanley said he wondered what the taxpayers of Belle Glade thought when the Chamber there received "upward of $5,000" in city funds. The C-C president said that if the townpeople are really for advertising their city, they as taxpayers do not object, and that the city would gain rather than lose as is generally the rule where no Chamber of Commerce exists.

Councilman Armstrong asked what progress had been made by the city toward getting abandoned, unsightly vehicles off rights-of-way and lots. She was appointed to work with the committee in the process of studying the problem, with the strong possibility that a new ordinance will be drawn up to supplement the already existing state law on removal of abandoned vehicles.

Councilman Tucker asked that the city consider requiring all corner-lot bushes to be kept clipped back to allow visibility at intersections. He also noted the need for closer check on speeders in the residential areas.

Other Actions
In other actions Council HEARD from Mayor Lewis Friend and Annona Ave. resident Leon Spooner complaints about the height of the sidewalks being put up in Annona, and agreed to inspect the site and study the matter.

ASKED the city attorney to review an option on the Chastain lot on Main St. taken by the Water Works.

RETAINED present city employees.
